The Pall Mall Gazette, in a rampant article on the action of Hon. W. H. Smith, the Government leader, in giving notice that he would move that the committee name the time when they would report the Irish crimes amendment bill to the House, urges every English and Irish member of Parliament who opposes Mr. Smith's proposal from Mr. Gladstone downward, to get themselves suspended rather than to tamely acquiesce in Mr. Smith's monstrous encroachment on the liberties of Parliament. - A collision occurred at Denbigh, Wales, between a mob and a body of police who were protecting an autioneer engaged in selling property for tithes. The mob turned an excited bull loose on the police and assaulted them with rotten eggs. One arrest was made. A large military force left Chester for the purpose of quelling the riots.

General Master Workman Powderly delivered an address to Knights of Labor in Boston Saturday, his visit being in connection with the lockout of the Worcester shoe shops. He admitted there were differences in the Order, but said that the Order would survive all differences. He denied that he sought to use the Order in the interest of the Catholic Church. He said he was not a candidate for re-election, and would not accept a re-election under any circumstances. Mr. Powderly was attacked with a severe pain in the lungs while speaking and had to stop. It is said he is suffering with a lung trouble that is aggravated by speaking .- The blast furnaces and steel mills of the South Chicago Rolling Mill have been closed down for want of coke, caused by the strike in the coke regions, and 1,300 men are thrown out of employment. The rail mill has shut down, and 750 men there are out of work. Nine thousand people in South Chicago are supported by the rolling mill, the pay-roll amounting to $125,000 a month. The Union Labor Party held a Convention at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday, and nominated a State ticket.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

. Judge Soward, of Sierra County, Cal., has sentenced Hugh Current to State's Prison for 40 years for robbing a man of 75 cents. --- At Kokomo, Ind., two detectives, who have been working with a gang of street laborers laying gas mains for the last two months, have arrested William and Joseph Malosh, who have confessed the crime of burning the Dixon building on the night of Jan. 1 last, causing a loss of $90,000, and state that they were hired to do it by prominent business men of that city .- A locomotive on the Ohio & Western Virginia Railroad struck a wagon, containing J. Adams and wife and two children, near Gallipolis, O., instantly killing the parents and one child. Mr. Adams was a wealthy farmer. -Mrs. Annie Griffith, of Phitadelphia, in a fit of insanity cut the throat of her 10-year-old daughter Mabel with a razor and then drew the weapon across her own throat, dying almost instantly. The child died a few hours later. Mrs. Griffith had been sick for some time, and her mental and physical condition had of late been growing worse. - Wm. Devine and John Kelly were arrested in New York Thursday night for beating two Chinamen, one of them fatally, and robbing them of $100 .-- The New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. has filed a suit against Milton C. Randall, its former agent in New Orleans, charging him with embezzlement of over $37,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Confederate Memorial Day was observed at Danville, Va., on Saturday. Ex-Congressman George C. Cabell was the orator of the day. He was a Colonel in the Confederate service. In his speech he paid a handsome tribute to the memory of the dead Union soldiers, and asked that flowers be placed on the graves of Union dead buried in the neighboring cometery. "We fought live men in the war," said he, " and will not fight dead men in peace." After decorating the graves of the Confederate soldiers Col. Cabel and the military went to the National Cemetery and put flowers about the center pole bearing the United States flag .- A delegation of wholesale liquor men of Texas, representing the anti-prohibitionists of that State, have been in St. Louis several days in the interest of a campaign fund. They are soliciting contributions from the leading brewers and distillers of the North and West, with the view of raising $50,000 to sid in carrying on the campaign against the adoption of the prohibition amendment which Texas is to vote on in August next. In an interview one of the delegates stated that, from present indications, the State will go for problisibition by at least 25,000 majority, unless a campaign fund can be raised sufficiently large to get the leaders throughout the State to take the stump .---The Western Union Telegraph Office in Pittsburg, Pa., was destroyed by fire last week. The office was situated in the First National Bank building, the three upper stories being completely gutted. The total loss is estimated at $70,000. The fire started in the operatingroom, and is supposed to have been caused by the crossing of wires in the rear of the switchboard .- The outlook for grain in Dakota is generally good, and in most parts above the average of former years. A local paper has letters written by grain men in Dakota representing every County. Of these at least 95 per cent. concur in the statement that the present prospect is not only better than last year, but that it is above the average of past years.— Mr. Bardeli, a citizen of Murphy Mills, Parkersburg, W. Va., was riding a fine blooded horse up the street, when he came suddenly upon a band of Arabs and performing bears. The horse, a sensitive animal, stood trembling a few seconds, then suddenly reared up and fell over backwards upon its rider, stone dead. It had burst a blood vessel from sheer fright. -The monument crected by Louisianians to the memory of the Louisiana soldiers who fell in defense of Vicksburg was unvailed in that city Jone 11 with impressive ceremonies. A number of prominent persons were present from all parts of the South, including Gov. McEnery and staff, of Louisiana. The Continental Guards of New Orleans and other military bodies were in procession. - The U.S. Treasurer has prepared a statement in regard to the circulating medium, which shows that the total circulation (coin and currency) May 31, 1887, was $1,297,256,560, being a net increase of $58,566,-544 as compared with the circulation May 31, 1886.—The Postmaster-General has issued an order to the postmaster at Chicago to deliver no more registered letters to the Chicago Farm Journal and cash no more money orders for - The Havemeyer Sugar Refinery, at Green Point, L. I., was destroyed by fire Saturday. The loss is $600,000 -- Accounts from all over Texas show the most magnificent crop prospectus since the famous big crop year of 1882 .-William Bacon Stevens, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of the diocese of Pennsylvania, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, died in Philadelphia last Saturday.

Vermont at Williamsburg. EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: In my statement sometime since in regard to Hancock at the battle of Williamsburg, I must have stepped on the corns of G. B. McKinney, 7th Mass., who ventures the assertion that I did not cross the cam on the 5th of May nor see the enemy. Now, I did not claim that we took any part in Hancock's fight, but we did cross the dam, and slept on ralls in a piece of woods at the right of some earthworks a little to the right and front of Fort Magrader. Smith's Division was in reserve on the center, and about 3 o'clock Hancock took one brigade to the right, and, finding the enemy, sent back for reinforcements. The Second Brigade (old Vermont Brigade) went to his support, arriving on the field after the fight was over. That, Comrade McKinney, is all I claim, and it is the truth. I would ask the comrade how he got his news from the front, as I do not see the 7th Mass, mentioned as taking any part in Hancock's brilliant little fight on the 5th of May. I think he has got mixed up in some of the regiments taking part, or he was in some other regiment at the time. Will you explain, comrade, how we were complimented for our part in the fight? I find that his regiment was not there, or at least not under Hancock .- L. A. PIERCE, Co. D, 3d Vt., Grand

GOOD FOR THE SOUL. An Open Confession of Stealing the Major's Supper. BY M. V. ASHBY, CO. I, 16TH ILL., AFTON,

Every one was soon eating a very good supper. Every one? No. There was one, an officer (Maj. Stone, of the 3d Iowa.) who solemnly said, with some very emphatic words, that he would not eat anything that was "jayhawkd," "confiscated," "stolen." He was cordially invited to dine with the boys of the Illinois company, but he was of the opinion that all the food taken by both companies was stolen, and

To provide for himself he went to a house near by and asked a young lady to bake him some cornbread. She soon had the bread ready for the table. And here came in the terrible appetite of those fellows, who still refuse to confess. Not having tasted cornbread for 60 days, they laid a diabolical plot to get a taste of that pone." The bread was placed on a table near the window. Two or three soldiers were leafing around outside, and while the young lady was out after milk the bread was slipped out the window, and the trio went behind the smoke-house and ate the Major's supper.

As soon as the young lady returned she nothat 'pone.'" Then the air was blue with the wrath of that official. All the words of the English language were used to express his con-

Along that dark road NEW JERSEY .occasionally could be heard the question, "Who stole Maj. Stone's 'pone'?" and then, as during all the past 25 years, not a word was said. It was understood by two or three of Co. I, 16th Ill., that it surely must be some of the Major's own regiment, as the other troops were not per-

For several days an effort was made to find the guilty soldiers, but they escaped that time, sure. No one seemed to enjoy this little incident more than the Colonel and Major of the 16th Ill. The Colonel, when it was communicated to him the next day, said it was bad for soldiers to treat their officers so, and he knew none of his troops would ever do so wicked a

One omission in my story may be added here. From the ground to the window it was seven or eight feet, and it was necessary to "boost" the outside man, and this required the strength of two of his fellows. I sometimes feel tired yet, for we held that fellow up so long waiting for the party inside to act. Another point in regard to my share of the bread. On account of having just dined on corn, fried duck, tomatoes and several other articles of food, it is my recollection that I only tasted the bread to see if the young lady was a good cook, as I was not hungry at the time.

Now in regard to Maj. Stone-his record is good, and we have him here in Iowa as an ex-Governor-I feel sure that to-day he will not shower upon our loyal heads what he did in 1861, and I think in regard to foraging in the enemy's country his opinions have probably changed. After the experience of the subsequent years of the war, I feel that the same thing would be done again with improved

This occasion was our first ride in army wagons, and on that occasion all the hollowness of a soldier was developed after being jolted over rough roads for 15 miles. The most of the squad were volunteers for the occasion, and it was not necessary to draft when the attack was made on the Major's supper.

As this was an "interstate" affair, it of course was necessary for such commercial relation; and, then, the Government gave free passes, and we accepted them on all occasions. The fact exists, however, that on some occasions the Government invited us to walk a little now and then, and we walked.

Camp 5, of Philadelphia, escorted by their band and a delegation from the various Camps throughout the city, paid a visit to Camp I, on Friday, June 3. Capt. R. W. Dubourg received the visitors with an address of welcome, after which Maj. Moses Veale, of Post 2, G.A.R., delivered an eloquent and interesting address. He spoke on the prison life of the soldiers during the war, and was well appreciated by the boys. Addresses were made by Capt. Hurt, Camp 52; Brother Morrison, Camp 5; Brother Kemble, Camp 27; Brother Stewart, Camp 5, and others. At a late hour the return-call sounded, and the brothers returned to their homes, well pleased with the evening's entertainment and with well wishes to the success of Camp 1.

The Guards of Camp 27, of Philadelphia, were a credit to the Order on Decoration Day. The manner in which they did their marching, drilling and firing is due to the hard labors of Capt. Wm. Young during the past year. Monday evening, May 30, when Camp 4, Philadelphia, returned to their ball after performing their duty in assisting Post 10 in decorating the graves of the dead soldiers of the late war, they held a short meeting and then lighted a campfire, there being a great many visitors present. Capt. Brown said he was well pleased with the behavior of the boys while on

THE FLAG AT JACKSON.

A Statement Well Fortified by Official Testimony. your paper of April 28 we notice a short article by Maj. George A. Clark, in regard to who raised the flag at Jackson. He was correct as regards the flag, but was in error as to the brave men who planted it; and it is not surprising that such an error should occur after the lapse of so many years. I did not intend to write of this matter; but as Capt. Martin was concluded, mustering two recruits being died several years ago, and as I possess pretty conclusive evidence, that ought to end the controversy about who raised the flag over the Capitol at Jackson, Miss., on the 14th day of Farragut Camp, No. 78, was instituted at Post | May, 1863, and at the same time do justice to 120 Hall, Lowell, May 21, by Chief Mustering all, and not deprive any of our brave comrades Thousands of Comrades are Wearing Them. I will say before closing that I am writing and compiling a history of the 4th Minn., and desire all who can to assist. I want copies of daily diaries, kept at the time by members of the regiment, or any other facts, to enable me to make the record as accurate as possible. Credit will be given to all who furnish anything. I have been at work for several months at this, and if I am willing to devote my time, it seems as if those who can ought to aid by sending me what they may have. A Personal Sketch and His Own Statement Regarding His Capture.

EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: I see a great deal in THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE about the capture of Gen. Walker was married in Washington to the daughter of Gen. Hernandez, the Spanish Governor of Florida before its purchase in 1835.

When the war broke out Capt. Walker resigned his commission in the United States Army as Captain and went South, and offered his services to the Governor of Florida, and was made Brigadier-General. His first battle was while in command on the coast; he fought the battle of Pocotaligo, S. C. Afterward he was in command of a brigade at Petersburg, where he was wounded and taken prisoner under the following circumstances. I will give his own language, as he frequently told it to me while I was engaged in business in with him 1872 at Alanta, Ga.

Being in doubt as to my position I rode ahead of my brigade, came out to a regiment and rode right up to it before I noticed it was a Federal regiment. Turning my horse I said: "Hold on, men, and I will send you reinforcements," and started rapidly away. I was almost out of range when a Federal officer cried out, "That is a rebel; fire!" and immediately volley killed my horse and wounded my right leg in such a manner as to necessitate amputation. The Federals carried me back, and as I was being borne to the rear a Yankee Surgeon said, "That is what you get for being a rebel." I was put in a regimental hospital, and then sent to a general hospital. While there I was visited by Gen. B. F.

Too much effort cannot be made to bring to the attention of suffering womanhood the great value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the diseases of women. Such an one is the wife of General Barringer of Winston, N. C., and we quote from the General's letter as follows: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Please allow me to add my testimony to the most excellent medicinal qualities of your Vegfor several years for what the physician called Leucorrheea and Prolapsus Uteri combined. I sent her to Richmond, Va., where she remained for six months under the treatment of an eminent Physician without any permanent benefit. She was induced to try your medicine, and after EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: In an issue of a reasonable time commenced to improve and is now able to attend to her business and considers herself fully relieved. which is literally true. No secondary incident in the which is literally true. No secondary incident in the whole war produced such a deep sensation as the exploits of the 23 "Engine Thieves," as the rebels designated them. This book, written by one of the survivors, tells the story in a very straightforward, fascinating way. It is handsomely gotten up, and well illustrated, and every one interested in the war should not fail to read it. It is just the thing to put into the hands of boys who thirst for stories of adventure and danger. Agents can make fine wages seiling it. It is just the thing for teachers, clergymen, lawyers, sewing-machine and insurance agents, students, and men and women who are ance agents, students, and men and women who are unable to do hard physical labor, to sell.
